THE GATEWAY TEACHER TRAINING PRIMARY EDUCATION PROGRAMME: ONE WEEK COURSE

TARGET AUDIENCE: Who is this course for?

- Practising or former teachers of English or other languages in primary education;
- Language teachers with a keen sense of their role as teaching professionals who would like to keep themselves up to date with the latest trends in teaching (in terms of methodologies, techniques, resources etc), and take responsibility for their own professional development, to continue reinventing themselves and becoming the best in their field;
- Teachers who would like to improve their own language proficiency in English in a customised setting, by being given an opportunity to focus on the language areas (skills and systems) most relevant to them;
- Participants with a B1 level of English (CEFR).

LANGUAGE/S OF INSTRUCTION

English (only)

LANGUAGE/S OF MATERIALS USED & PROVIDED

English (only)

PREPARATION: Before the course

Following registration completion or on arrival, course participants will be provided with:

- A course timetable;
- A pre-arrival profile questionnaire that will help course coordinators profile trainees individually based on their respective teaching contexts, practices and beliefs, and get a better understanding of any specific TRAINING NEEDS they may have;
- The school's official placement test which will accurately assess participants' level from B1 to C2 and indicate the most prevalent and pertinent English LANGUAGE NEEDS, allowing course coordinators to better situate applicants' English language proficiency and group trainees together accordingly for their own benefit, both generally throughout the course and, particularly, in anticipation of the 'Language Development' Module, which is customised towards participants' own needs;
- A Welcome Pack which includes a map and the Gateway Student Handbook with handy information about the school, accommodation, leisure options, and useful facts about Malta (such as important numbers, public transport information, public and national holidays etc.), for easy reference;
- A recommended reading list.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Gateway School of English is a small privately owned school which welcomes students from all walks of life, including primary school teachers for whom this programme is specifically designed. The focus of our Gateway Teacher Training Primary School Programme is based on interactive, experiential learning that meets the needs of all teachers in primary education. Course participants can benefit from a hands-on approach in the practical workshops in the company of other teachers, while discovering methodologies which will allow them to evaluate their current teaching purpose and practices in their own teaching environment.

Our aim is double-edged and combines the following opportunities:

1. to refresh your knowledge of English by brushing up on your own language skills and lexico-grammatical repertoire;
2. to explore and practise new teaching methods while exploiting various materials, both familiar (e.g. commonly used course books) and new (e.g. authentic texts popular in the target culture) that will give you ideas on how to be more creative and selective when enriching students' exposure to real-world language to enable you to create a fun learning environment to motivate your young learners.

Coupled with the course's strong academic component, which will greatly enhance participants' professional skills, there is also the added bonus of having a memorable holiday in the Mediterranean and learning about the rich cultural history of the fascinating Maltese Islands.

The Gateway Teacher Training Primary School Programme is practical, informative and fun. Sessions include:

- Reviewing and reflecting on participants' own methodological practices to identify more student-centred approaches which allow for the development of greater learner autonomy.
- Vocabulary activities that promote fluency
- Organising classroom projects for optimal learning results
- Reflecting on and developing teaching techniques
- Getting more from course books
- Adapting materials to suit a variety of levels and learning abilities
- Teaching the skills more effectively
- Communicative games for language learning
- Exploiting authentic child-friendly materials such as comics and cartoons for maximum learning potential
- Storytelling
- Using Cuisenaire rods in a language learning environment
- Language development that will be tailored to the needs of the course participants

OBJECTIVES

- To develop participants' understanding of language teaching and learning across the variables of students' level, abilities, learning style, age and cultural background;
- To refresh participants' knowledge of English by helping them brush up on their practical language skills and extend their lexicogrammatical repertoire, based on their individual and collective needs, with particular attention to their specific areas of weakness. This component of the course carries a strong experiential element as it is an opportunity for teachers to momentarily benefit from being in their students' position;
- To motivate participants to take control of the choice of teaching materials they use in class, whether it is by creatively adapting their curricular resources, such as traditional course books, or by drawing on and exploiting the potential of authentic non-instructional materials taken from everyday life and popular culture (such as cartoons, comics, blogs, vlogs, TV episodes, TV / radio commercials, music, social media etc.);
- To explore and practise new teaching methods while trainees revisit their own current practices and reflect on how they can improve and add to aspects of their teaching (delivery technique, lesson planning etc.), while sharing examples of best practice with peers from similar backgrounds;
- To understand how best to design level-appropriate graded tasks while respecting the authentic language around which they are designed;
- To unravel the mysteries of motivation and understand how it happens and sometimes fails to happen;
- To debate the benefits of learner autonomy and peer projects (learner cooperation and collaboration), as well as the challenges presented in light of many societies' increasing multiculturalism and the overall impact these have on language education systems at large. Reference will also be made to the Maltese (bilingual) setting and participants' own socio-cultural contexts.

METHODOLOGY

Participants will enjoy a combination of explicit instruction and direct teacher involvement. Following the format of a workshop, sessions are:

- Interactive with plenty of ongoing group discussion and opportunities for participants to draw on their own experience and exchange ideas they feel are worth sharing;
- Demonstrative in the presentation of teaching approaches, lesson planning and materials design;
- Practical and hands-on when it comes to trialling some of the ideas presented in class, with the aim that participants will be able to take something tangible away with them (a specific technique, a particular activity, a general way of planning lessons or adapting resources, etc.);
- Experiential in nature, so that participants can experience the content being presented and promoted (methodologies, teaching styles, lesson plans etc.) first-hand, from the perspective of students, through which they will be better positioned to make judgements on learning effectiveness;
- Evaluative with opportunities for individual reflection, teaching practice, lesson observations and peer feedback.

After the course

- On the last day of the course, trainees will be provided with a certificate of attendance (this qualifies as an EU mobility certificate and can be attached with the Europass CV).
- Course evaluation feedback will allow participants to reflect on the overall value of the course and its relevance to their own teaching contexts, while identifying the most useful points they will be able to take away with them and apply most immediately into their teaching practice and school context.

THE GATEWAY TEACHER TRAINING SECONDARY, TERTIARY AND ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAMME: TWO WEEK COURSE

TARGET AUDIENCE: Who is this course for?

- Practising or former teachers of English or other languages in secondary, tertiary or adult education;
- Language teachers with a keen sense of their role as teaching professionals who would like to keep themselves up to date with the latest trends in teaching (in terms of methodologies, techniques, resources etc), and take responsibility for their own professional development, to continue reinventing themselves and becoming the best in their field;
- Teachers who would like to improve their own language proficiency in English in a customised setting, by being given an opportunity to focus on the language areas (skills and systems) most relevant to them;
- Participants with a B1 level of English (CEFR).

LANGUAGE/S OF INSTRUCTION

English (only)

LANGUAGE/S OF MATERIALS USED & PROVIDED

English (only)

PREPARATION: Before the course

Following registration completion or on arrival, course participants will be provided with:

- A course timetable;
- A pre-arrival profile questionnaire that will help course coordinators profile trainees individually based on their respective teaching contexts, practices and beliefs, and get a better understanding of any specific TRAINING NEEDS they may have;
- The school's official placement test which will accurately assess participants' level from B1 to C2 and indicate the most prevalent and pertinent English LANGUAGE NEEDS, allowing course coordinators to better situate applicants' English language proficiency and group trainees together accordingly for their own benefit, both generally throughout the course and, particularly, in anticipation of the 'Language Development' Module, which is customised towards participants' own needs;
- A Welcome Pack which includes a map and the Gateway Student Handbook with handy information about the school, accommodation, leisure options, and useful facts about Malta (such as important numbers, public transport information, public and national holidays etc.), for easy reference;
- A recommended reading list.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Gateway School of English is a small privately owned school which welcomes students from all walks of life, including teachers in secondary, tertiary and adult education for whom this programme is specifically designed. The focus of this course is based on interactive, experiential learning that meets the needs of all teachers at these levels of education. Course participants can benefit from a hands-on approach in the practical workshops in the company of other teachers, while discovering methodologies which will allow them to evaluate their current teaching purpose and practices in their own teaching environment.

Our aim is double-edged and combines the following opportunities:

3. to refresh your knowledge of English by brushing up on your own language skills and lexico-grammatical repertoire;
4. to explore and practise new teaching methods while exploiting various materials, both familiar (e.g. commonly used course books) and new (e.g. authentic texts popular in the target culture) that will give you ideas on how to be more creative and selective when enriching students' exposure to real-world language to enable you to create a fun learning environment to motivate your young learners.

Coupled with the course's strong academic component, which will greatly enhance participants' professional skills, there is also the added bonus of having a memorable holiday in the Mediterranean and learning about the rich cultural history of the fascinating Maltese Islands.

The Gateway Teacher Training Secondary, Tertiary and Adult Education Programme is practical, informative and fun. Sessions include:

- Reviewing and reflecting on participants' own methodological practices to identify more student-centred approaches which allow for the development of greater learner autonomy.
- Vocabulary activities that promote fluency
- Organising classroom projects for optimal learning results
- Reflecting on and developing teaching techniques
- Getting more from course books
- Adapting materials to suit a variety of levels and learning abilities
- Teaching the skills more effectively
- Communicative games for language learning
- Exploiting authentic child-friendly materials such as comics and cartoons for maximum learning potential
- Storytelling
- Using Cuisenaire rods in a language learning environment
- Language development that will be tailored to the needs of the course participants
- To develop participants' understanding of language teaching and learning across the variables of students' level, abilities, learning style, age and cultural background;
- To refresh participants' knowledge of English by helping them brush up on their practical language skills and extend their lexicogrammatical repertoire, based on their individual and collective needs, with particular attention to their specific areas of weakness. This component of the course carries a strong experiential element as it is an opportunity for teachers to momentarily benefit from being in their students' position;
- To motivate participants to take control of the choice of teaching materials they use in class, whether it is by creatively adapting their curricular resources, such as traditional course books, or by drawing on and exploiting the potential of authentic non-instructional materials taken from everyday life and popular culture (such as cartoons, comics, blogs, vlogs, TV episodes, TV / radio commercials, music, social media etc.);
- To explore and practise new teaching methods while trainees revisit their own current practices and reflect on how they can improve and add to aspects of their teaching (delivery technique, lesson planning etc.), while sharing examples of best practice with peers from similar backgrounds;
- To understand how best to design level-appropriate graded tasks while respecting the authentic language around which they are designed;
- To unravel the mysteries of motivation and understand how it happens and sometimes fails to happen;
- To debate the benefits of learner autonomy and peer projects (learner cooperation and collaboration), as well as the challenges presented in light of many societies' increasing multiculturalism and the overall impact these have on language education systems at large. Reference will also be made to the Maltese (bilingual) setting and participants' own socio-cultural contexts.

METHODOLOGY

Participants will enjoy a combination of explicit instruction and direct teacher involvement. Following the format of a workshop, sessions are:

- Interactive with plenty of ongoing group discussion and opportunities for participants to draw on their own experience and exchange ideas they feel are worth sharing;
- Demonstrative in the presentation of teaching approaches, lesson planning and materials design;
- Practical and hands-on when it comes to trialing some of the ideas presented in class, with the aim that participants will be able to take something tangible away with them (a specific technique, a particular activity, a general way of planning lessons or adapting resources, etc.);
- Experiential in nature, so that participants can experience the content being presented and promoted (methodologies, teaching styles, lesson plans etc.) first-hand, from the perspective of students, through which they will be better positioned to make judgements on learning effectiveness;
- Evaluative with opportunities for individual reflection, teaching practice, lesson observations and peer feedback.
- On the last day of the course, trainees will be provided with a certificate of attendance (this qualifies as an EU mobility certificate and can be attached with the Europass CV).
- Course evaluation feedback will allow participants to reflect on the overall value of the course and its relevance to their own teaching contexts, while identifying the most useful points they will be able to take away with them and apply most immediately into their teaching practice and school context.

THE GATEWAY TEACHER TRAINING DIVERSITY IN EDUCATION PROGRAMME: ONE WEEK COURSE

TARGET AUDIENCE: Who is this course for?

- Teachers or other professionals working or involved in multicultural education settings, domestic or academic, who would like to better inform and equip themselves to deal with the changing demands of an increasingly diverse and inclusive world.
- The skills and awareness developed through the course are transferable across a wide variety of contexts and activities in and out of the school classroom, such as home tuition and foreign exchange projects.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This course is a timely response to the modern-day demands of intercultural integration in different educational contexts, including the classroom, homestay tuition and language mobility programmes.

PREPARATION: Before the course

Following registration completion or on arrival, course participants will be provided with:

- A course timetable;
- A pre-arrival profile questionnaire that will help course coordinators profile trainees individually based on their respective teaching contexts, practices and beliefs, and get a better understanding of any specific TRAINING NEEDS they may have;

- A recommended reading list.

OBJECTIVES

The course will give participants an opportunity to:

- Become more aware of the fast-paced changes taking place in the world at large and the education sector more specifically, as a result of the modern reality of increased diversification;
- Sensitively discuss the challenges posed by this diversification, such as the global need to update politically correct language;
- Review various approaches to the situation by highlighting the importance of tolerant and respectful behaviour starting from basic social skills to improve intercultural communication;
- Understand personal and social roles in the global context towards the end of cultural harmony;
- Develop internationally relevant interpersonal skills that are transferable to various cultural contexts.

METHODOLOGY

Participants will enjoy a combination of explicit instruction and direct teacher involvement. Following the format of a workshop, sessions are:

- Interactive with plenty of ongoing group discussion and opportunities for participants to draw on their own experience and exchange ideas they feel are worth sharing;
